Unit I

Listen in!

Part 1

Listen to five people (1-5) talking about some things used when travelling. Write a-e after each number.

1. I had too many things with me when I went to China: a suitcase, a backpack and a smaller bag. I had to pay some extra money before I could get on the plane.
2. These days most people get this online and print it out before they go to the airport. It saves a bit of time I suppose.
3. I need to get a new one because it's ten years since I got my last one. You can't travel to another country if you haven't got one.
4. I picked up some when I went to the travel agency. All the places look wonderful but sometimes the destinations are not as good as they might appear.
5. They are really useful when you get to a new place and there's a map showing the most important places. Sure, you can get the information you need off the internet but I prefer using one of these.

Part 2

Jing is talking about his backpacking holiday. Tick the correct box. The second time you listen, correct the false sentences.

We left Paris on Monday and we took the first train to Barcelona. It left at 7 and we were already in Barcelona at 13.20. The train ride was great and I enjoyed looking at the changing landscape. One problem I had was my backpack was really heavy, but the hostel was quite near the train station. After dropping our backpacks at the hostel we immediately started exploring the city on foot. We found a cheap restaurant in the guidebook and while we were eating we planned the rest of the afternoon. First, we went to the Basilica of the Sagrada Familia. This was great and the view from the top was excellent. Then we went for a walk in Las Ramblas. My friend bought a few things, but I only bought some postcards. We went back to the hostel for a while because we wanted to meet some other backpackers before exploring the famous Barcelona night-life. We've heard so much about it.

Part 3

Karla is talking about her last trip. Fill in the blanks with one word from the recording. Listen twice.

We've just come back from a very enjoyable holiday in Thailand. I found some cheap flights and some great accommodation in the guidebook. My husband finally agreed and we're travelling to South America next year instead. We went to some lovely beaches, swam and relaxed. My daughter learnt to swim and we had a lot of fun. I did a couple of excursions, but my husband gets bored lying on the beach all day and so he and our son went on two other trips while my daughter and I stayed on the beach. One day, while we were lying on the beach someone stole my bag. I think it was some other tourists that were sitting next to us. Later I found the bag but they stole the money inside it but it wasn't much. You always have to be careful wherever you go. We all had a fantastic time and the food was the best thing of all. My husband and I are going to learn how to cook some Thai dishes. Delicious!

Part 4

David is talking about his last holiday. Circle the best answer (a, b or c).

As both my wife and I don't like airports or planes we took the kids to the north of England in the car. We spent a week camping and a week in small hotels. While we were driving in the car we played word quizzes with the kids to stop them getting bored. We did some great walks along the coast and our youngest daughter loved being outdoors. Her favourite things were the historical places of interest. There she learnt lots of new things. Of course, the weather was not always great and my wife and our oldest daughter would rather go to a warm place by the sea next year. Maybe we'll either take the train or drive down to France or Spain. That way we won't have to go to the airport and have to follow all those rules and we can take as many bags as we want.

Extra Speaking

Exercise 1B

Listen and check your answers.

Examiner: How do you prefer to travel?

Candidate: I prefer to travel by plane because flying is much quicker and I think it's more exciting.

Examiner: What did you do the last time you travelled by plane?

Candidate: I was reading a guidebook about London most of the time.

Examiner: So, what do you have to do if you travel by plane?

Candidate: A lot of things. You have to check in online and print out your boarding pass, and you mustn't forget your passport. You also have to check in your luggage if you have more than one bag. Do you like flying?

Examiner: Not really, I prefer travelling by train or ferry if possible because it's more relaxing and I don't really like airports. What sort of holidays do you prefer?

Candidate: I prefer beach holidays because I want to relax. But I like going on excursions too because if you do some sight-seeing you can learn more about the local culture.

Examiner: In your opinion, is it important to respect the local culture when you travel somewhere?

Candidate: Yes. And it's important to try to speak a few words of their language too, even if it is only 'hello' and 'thank you'. What do you think about that?

Examiner: Yes, I think that's important too. So, where are you travelling for your holiday this summer?

Candidate: I think I'm going on a cruise around the Caribbean with my family.

Examiner: Wow! That sounds glamorous. Have you been on one before?

Candidate: No, I haven't, but I've seen the brochures and it looks fantastic.

Examiner: Do you know what destinations you'll go to?

Candidate: Not all of them, but I know we're visiting Jamaica and Cuba.

Examiner: Sounds wonderful. So, what's the best place you've been to?

Candidate: I think it was the first time I went abroad. We went to a Greek island called Corfu. I was really impressed with everything about it. What about you?

Examiner: Well, I love the Far East. There are some very interesting cultures, wonderful people and great food. With luck I'll be able to visit again in a year's time. I can't wait, but the only problem is I have to fly there.

Unit 2

Listen in!

Part 1

Listen to five people (1-5) discussing rules and regulations. What things are they talking about?

Write a-e after each number.

1. I didn't have to do a lot when I was young, but of course now I do much more because I try to share as much as I can with my wife.
2. We were quite annoyed. We parked in the wrong place for only 15 minutes and now we'll have to pay fifty pounds.
3. I was late for school twice last week and now I'll have to stay behind after class to do some extra homework.
4. I don't think it's necessary to do so much every day, and then we spend a lot of time marking it and some students don't always do it.
5. I don't mind the one we have at the moment as it's green, but my last one was red. It was horrible and other kids in the town laughed at us.

Part 2

Gemma is talking about her university. Tick the correct box. The second time you listen, correct the false sentences.

I've just started university and it's very different from school! One of the biggest differences is we don't have nearly so many rules and regulations. Of course, we don't have to wear a school uniform and I know it sounds strange but I feel more comfortable wearing a uniform. Also we don't have to go to all the lectures. I was surprised about that, but I don't want to miss any because I love my course! But I've heard on some courses you need to attend all of them. One of my professors locks the door after five minutes so late students can't enter the lecture hall. The students soon became more punctual after he did that! We don't have any homework exactly but we must read as much as we can about a subject. The professors also let us choose our own essay titles so we can write about different ideas on the subject. But we cannot do whatever we like, because I heard the university expelled some students last year for poor behaviour. And of course, if you don't study hard, you might not pass your exams.

Part 3

Yuki is talking about her work. Fill in the blanks with one word from the recording. Listen twice.

I've worked in a toy factory for more than ten years and I enjoy working there. Of course, we must be punctual and we either start work at 7am or 3pm. I prefer doing the earlier period because I then have time to do other things in the late afternoon. I think the rules at our factory are fair. For example, if you're late for work more than three times in one month you'll get a warning. Our managers are friendly and respect the workers and we respect them. Because we think the rules are fair people follow the rules and it's unusual for a worker to get into trouble. Many people think working in a factory is boring, but I don't think so. In our factory we change positions and sometimes I have to check the quality of our products and the products are always changing. At the moment we're making some interesting new toys and I'm really proud of them.

Part 4

Mateo is talking about the rules in his house. Circle the best answer (a, b or c).

I think the rules in my house are not so different from most of my friends. My parents can be strict sometimes, especially my dad, but most of the time they're pretty fair with us. We just do the usual stuff like tidying up our rooms and we have to help with the housework when mum asks us to. She says it's more important to do homework than housework. We also have to take off our shoes when we enter the house but the main rules in our house are in the evening. We're not allowed to watch TV when we're eating and we must turn off our mobile phones between eight and nine pm while we're having dinner. Dad thinks this is the best time for us to discuss our day. Two nights ago we were eating and my sister's phone rang, and he got really annoyed.

Exercise 1B

Listen and check your answers.

Examiner: Do you have a lot of rules in your house?

Candidate: Well, we have rules but I don't think there are a lot. My husband and I make the rules together and we explain the rules carefully to our teenage children and why it's important to follow them.

Examiner: So what rules do you have for them?

Candidate: I think most of them are common sense. For example, they must be home before 9pm in the week and midnight at weekends and if they're going to be late they must call us. But there has to be a very good reason if they're late. Obviously they have to do their homework, do a bit of housework and be polite.

Examiner: So, do they respect all your rules?

Candidate: Er, no. Not all the time, but they are usually well-behaved.

Examiner: Do you work as well?

Candidate: Yes, I do. Of course, there are rules at my office too.

Examiner: For example?

Candidate: Well, we need to arrive on time, we must dress in a suitable way, and obviously we need to have the right attitude. What about in your job?

Examiner: Yes, I think it's quite similar. As you say, I think it's common sense really. What about your children's school? Is it a strict school?

Candidate: Yes, it is a bit. My husband and I think it's a good idea for them to have plenty of rules because we think they'll be more responsible when they are older. What's your opinion?

Examiner: I think it depends. As long as the rules are sensible. So, what happens if the students don't follow the rules in your children's school?

Candidate: Well, it depends. If they use a mobile telephone in class, first they get a warning, and the next time they'll receive a punishment. That is usually a detention, so they have to stay in after class.

Examiner: Do they expel many students from that school?

Candidate: I think it's happened a few times, but it's quite rare.

Examiner: Do you think you'll make some more rules for your children in future?

Candidate: Well, we might, but in our opinion they have enough for the moment.

Examiner: Ok, thanks.
